

Businessmen in the News

□ □
Marvin Zonis a political economist of 40 years' standing was in Mumbai recently to give insights to members of the IDFC Private Equity team. Professor emiretus at the University of Chicago, Zonis teaches courses on International Political Economy, Leadership, and Business Strategy besides heading a political risk consultancy firm, Marvin Zonis + Associates, Inc. The firm works with corporations and professional asset management firms throughout the world to help them identify, assess, and manage their political risks in the constantly changing global environment.

Having spent several years in the Middle East, Zonis is considered a thought leader and helps management firms to identify, assess, and manage their political risks in the changing global environment. "Technology and globalisation are fast transforming the business and it is important for management to be aware of the risks and act accordingly," he points out.